Weddings

The marriage of Miss Edith Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, of the Hedges, Sausalito, and Lieut. H. H. Thomlinson, of the Twenty-second Infantry, United States Army, took place yesterday at noon at the home of the bride's parents in California. A reception was held for the family and intimate friends only.

The marriage of Miss Mary E. Ortol, and A. Ross Edmonston took place at Rockville on Wednesday afternoon at the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. H. E. Evans, of the Rev. J. E. Stuart officiating. The parlor was decorated with ferns and bride roses, forming a dainty bower for the bride party. A reception followed to the families of the bride and bridegroom. After their return from the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will be at home to their friends on September 1.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William McMillan Brookshire was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, when their daughter, Miss Gertrude McMillan Brookshire, was married to George Robert Bryan, the Rev. J. E. Stuart officiating. The parlor was decorated with ferns and bride roses, forming a dainty bower for the bride party. A reception followed to the families of the bride and bridegroom. After their return from the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will be at home to their friends on September 1.

Miss Sue Wynkoop, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Beans, of Fairfax, Va., was married yesterday at noon to Achilles Sagario, in the bride's home, 1906 P street, by the Rev. W. H. Chapman, temporary pastor of the Mt. Vernon M. E. Church South. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present for the ceremony. The bride's only attendant was Miss Marguerite Sagario, sister of the bridegroom, and Frank Wynkoop, of Hamilton, Va., brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The bride wore her traveling gown of brown tulle silk, with hat and accessories to match. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Central High School, class of 1906, and was graduated later from Lehigh University, of Bethlehem, Pa., as a civil engineer.

During the latter college career he made a splendid reputation as a basketball player and in other athletic sports. He was captain of the first basketball team organized in the Central High School.

He is also prominent now in the local baseball teams, being "outfield" in the Mt. Vernon Sunday School team. The bride and bridegroom left this afternoon for a trip to Atlantic City, after which they will spend three weeks with Mrs. Sagario's relatives in Loudoun county, Va.

Entertainments.

A very successful vaudeville performance was given last week in the theater of National Park Seminary for the benefit of the fund for a new graded school building in the neighborhood. The play called "Summer Boarders," written by Mrs. Thomas J. Garrett, was cleverly acted by the tots under Mrs. Garrett's supervision. The play by the older children showed careful training also, and was well received.

The vaudeville acts were original and clever, and the tableaux unusually artistic. Miss Keys posed the tableaux, and Wallace Wright acted as stage manager.

The Kensington Orchestra, assisted by local talent, furnished the instrumental music. The singers were Mrs. Wilma and Miss Blazer, from Washington.

A large and enthusiastic audience enjoyed the play, and a substantial sum was realized. The duty theater with electric lights of all colors surrounding it made a beautiful picture, as the guests approached from the cars. The thanks of the ladies in charge of the entertainment are due to all who so generously donated their services and to Mr. and Mrs. Cassidy for the use of the Odeon.

bontas danced with "Wild Bill," the cowboy. The grand march was led by Miss Brady, of Baltimore, presenting a champagne bottle, and Miss Hanna Taylor, of Washington, as a Pierette. Individual prizes were awarded to Alfred Taylor, "The Rube," and Miss Claire Winne, as "Hawatha," for the best man and woman costumes, Miss Brady, as the champagne bottle, and Mr. Stallenworth, dressed as a Chinaman, won the prize for the most unique costumes.

Tuesday morning Mrs. Elias Hare, of Washington, and Mrs. B. A. Bryant, of Colorado Springs, gave a progressive euchre of ten tables. After the awarding of lovely prizes, a delightful luncheon was served. Those playing were Mesdames Tutwiler, Toulman, Addison, Morgan, Magruder, McElheney, Rutherford, Caruel, Taylor, Knox, Bigelow, Mathews, Little, Snodgrass, Bradford.

Thursday evening Edward Powell Hill, of Baltimore, gave a moonlight ride to a party of young people to Capon river, where supper was served at the "Inn."

Just now a great deal of interest is being exhibited in the approaching tournament and ball, which takes place next Tuesday. Several good tourney riders are already here, and many more from nearby Maryland and Virginia towns have notified the committee that they will be present.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Restlessness is the order of the day among the Four Hundred. September is at hand, and its arrival brings a complete shifting of scenes.

The seashore will be deserted for the mountains and for the suburban resorts and country seats around New York, and there will be quite a number of horse shows and weddings next month to engage the attention of society. Plans for the fall gayeties are well under way, and the program of the festivities of the summer is rapidly nearing its end.

Of course, the visit of Prince William of Sweden has been the principal event of the past week at Newport. He leaves there today, and it would be extremely interesting to learn the real impression which he is carrying away with him from our most fashionable seaside resort, after a continuous round of entertainments.

It is the fact that the New York colony at Newport has shown itself at what it believes to be its best, and has treated him with more distinction and honor than any other royal guest. The two Princes of Bourbon, sons of the ex-Crown Princess of Brazil, and Prince Albert of Belgium, visited Newport during their stay in America without attracting much attention.

Leaving Saratoga Now.

At Saratoga the people are already leaving. Both the racing and the polo tournaments come to an end this week, and there is little to retard the departure of the fashionable world.

The latter has been, on the whole, a very successful summer in the season of 1907 has been the least successful in years. True, the Herman B. Duryées, the E. C. Potters, the W. S. Fanshaws, the Hitchcocks, Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Leach, James R. Keene, August Belmont and the boys, and last, but not least, Cornelius Felloes and Miss Carolyn Felloes, have done all they could to put some life into the season, but it has been without avail.

From a social point of view, Saratoga has been a distinct failure this year, with many of its old and distinguished patrons missing, and their place taken by impossible people upon whom the limelight has shone only to render more glaring their atrocious vulgarity. None of the Vanderbilts, nor the Clarence Mackays, nor the Whitneys, nor the Gerrys, have deigned to put in an appearance, and the Pierre Lorillards, the Waterburys, and the E. R. Thomases, as well as the Beckmans, have been equally conspicuous by their absence.

Gay in Adirondacks.

Mountain resorts and the Berkshires will benefit quite extensively in a social sense through the desertion of the seashore, and the various camps in the Adirondacks will be the scene of much gayety throughout the next four or five weeks. Of course, the Anson Phelps Stokeses take a leading part in the diversions of camp life along the lakes of the St. Regis chain, and the commodore takes his duties as such very seriously to heart and is tireless in the organization of yacht races.

At every camp house parties are being entertained. Admiral and Mrs. William Sheffield Cowles, the latter a sister of the President, as well as Mr. and Mrs. William Douglas Sloane, Miss Dan Reid, Sheldon Whitehouse, and Miss Evelyn Burden are staying with Mrs. Whitelaw Reid at Camp Wildair. Mr. and Mrs. Moses A. Taylor have been the guests of Thomas A. Gardner at his camp on Pearl Island.

September Weddings.

Another wedding of note at Lenox in September will be that of Miss Evelyn Sloane to William E. S. Griswold, which is set for Thursday week at Wyndhurst, the country place of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Sloane. Only a few relatives and intimate friends will be present at the ceremony, and a large number of invitations have been issued for the reception afterward.

Among the other weddings of September will be that of Reeve Schley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Schley, to Miss Kate de Forest Prentice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. P. Prentice, September 7, at Monmouth Beach, N. J., where the parents of the bride have their summer home.

Then, September 12, Miss Adelaide Jackson, daughter of Mrs. William H. Jackson, of Madison avenue, will be

Dorothy Dodd

A FASHIONABLE TIE

THIS cut crudely suggests one of the most fashionable and popular Oxfords of the year. It has been a serious problem for the "Dorothy Dodd" shoe makers to keep pace with the demand. The toe is rather pointed, though the shoe is extremely comfortable and a fine fitter. The heel is set well under, and the shank is arched. The effect is a slender, graceful, arched appearance to any foot.

$3.00 and $3.50

This "Dorothy Dodd" style is made in various leathers, including the dressy, shiny leather. You get the limit of satisfaction when you buy this shoe.
